- Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs has launched the 'City Innovation Exchange' platform. This platform will provide eco-system to connect innovators with cities at national level to create innovative solutions to the growing challenges of cities.
- Based on the philosophy of 'free innovation', this platform will bring together civic organizations, academies, businesses and government to co-create urban India in a transparent and sustainable manner.
- It will facilitate the discovery, design and validation of solutions through a robust, transparent and user-centric process. Also, it will reduce barriers between innovators and cities to search for appropriate solutions.
- Currently, more than 215 solutions are available on this platform to tackle about 150 challenges related to more than 400 start-ups of 100 smart cities.
